BAR & LOUNGE

Step back in time to the vibrant 1930s, where the heart of London pulsated with elegance, intrigue, and the clinking of glasses. In the heart of this era, there was a place, a hidden gem, now known as Bar 35, that bore witness to the most captivating stories. It's a place where history was etched into the very walls, and secrets were whispered over exquisite cocktails.

Bar 35's tale begins in the early 1930s, a time when London was the epicenter of style, culture, and sophistication. It was a time of Art Deco opulence and the birth of the cocktail culture. With its doors first thrown open, it became an instant magnet for society's finest. From royalty seeking respite from the spotlight to enigmatic Cold War spies meeting discreetly under its dimly lit chandeliers, Bar 35 was more than just a bar; it was a living, breathing time capsule.

Fast forward to today, and the spirit of that golden era still lingers within the renovated walls of '35 Bar & Lounge. A place where grandeur and sophistication blend seamlessly with the enchanting nostalgia of the past. The crimson red velvet seats, reminiscent of the luxurious interiors of West-End theatres, beckon guests to sink into comfort and style.
